NewJet Air: Safe, Secure, Trusted

Updated: 5 minutes ago

The safest way around the world!

Proven path of safety first

Due to recent media events, we at NewJet Air want to address any concerns our travelers have regarding safety. The information provided in this blog is an account of our never-ending commitment to safety.

NewJet Air is the newest of the biggest airlines and we have one of the best safety records. For the last 10 years, NewJet Air has been in the new airline in the sky and has benefited by learning from other airlines as well as implementing the strictest safety measures issued by the FAA.

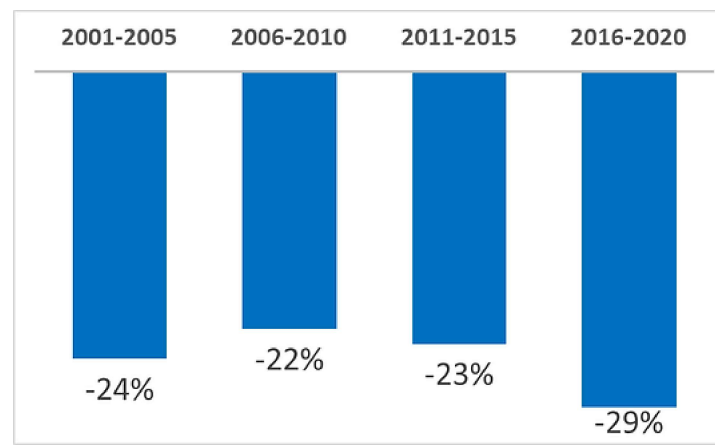

Our diligence to safety is demonstrated by our track record

NewJet Air has the best safety profile in the airline business to date. We are proud of this accomplishment and at the same time, never rest. Each day, the utmost care and attention is given to our safety guidelines by each and every employee at NewJet Air.

Across all airlines, airline safety has steadily increased with airline disasters steadily decreasing (Figure 1).

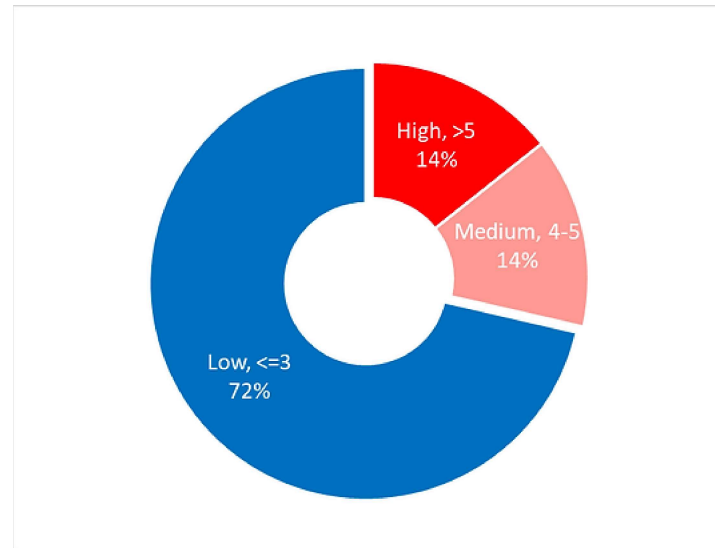

- During the past 20 years, commercial aviation fatalities in the U.S. have decreased by 95 percent as measured by fatalities per 100 million passenger

In general, airline travel safety has made great strides and at NewJet Air, our safety profile is LOW and remains amongst the lowest.

Our airline has one of the highest safety rating and, to be honest, it comes down to our talented airline employees. Our pilots undergo the highest degree of training and are requalified each and every year. Trainings focus on all areas of aircraft safety including mechanical knowledge and critical aspects of the flight path. This enables our staff to practice improved safety at all levels; likewise we focus on training all airline staff in order to allow any team members to be able to react and ensure passenger safety for all our flights.

We look forward to traveling with you today and every day, safely.
